to give the United States a really representative team is another player of almost equal singles ability and a strong well-balanced doubles team.

In addition to McLoughlin and R. Norris Williams, H.: William M. Johnston, John R. Strachan, R. Lindley Murray, Clarence Griffin, G. C. Caner and Elia, Fottrell, form a squad of young players who are rapidly mounting to the highest ranks, and these players, together with several others of more mature experience, give a wide field from which to select. From this same combination a formidable doubles pair might be formed, although pairs already accustomed to the necessary team-work. Ilke Dean Mathey and George M. Church, who surprised the Davis Cup gallery by defeating Doust and Dunlop, the Australasian reservists, are available and need but a little polish to make them of cup calibre.

Unless the other tennis playing nations of the world keep pace in the development of young players it is doubtful, therefore, if the next contest for this cup will witness the close and thrilling play that developed in the 1914 struggle. An analysis of the Davis Cup records for the tournament shows that the representatives of the seven nations which participated played six rounds, consisting of thirty matches, nhiety-five sets and 900 games. With the exception of the British Isles-Australasian matches all the rounds were one sided. Brookes and Wilding, after defaulting two matches to the British Isles-Australasian matches all the rounds were one sided. TWO BIG LINERS ARRIVE, sate of found to be the French liner france. The France, apparently suspicious, too, sheered off when she saw the Adriatic.

Whether the Adriatic's armament brings her within the classification of an auxiliary cruiser was a question Collector Malone asked Secretary Me-Adoo, his superior at Washington, to determine to-day. Under neutrality regulations the Adriatic must leave within twenty-four hours or remain the an auxiliary cruiser.

The White Star liner Olympic also arrived to-day with 1,762 passengers from Europe.

ACCEPT RISKS OF WAR

BY SALLING FOR EUROPE
Vessels of several nations accepted the risks of war by salling for Europe. The Cunarder Pannonia departed for Liverpool with a full cargo, but no passengers. The Russian-American steamship Dwinsk, whose sailing date had been previously postponed on advices from the home office in Libau, took on board 1,200 passengers, of whom all but 160 were in the steerage, to sail for Arcangel. All the steerage passengers were Russians, many of them presumably called home to the colors.

Conter, by asking you to accept the Grand Cross of Maria Theresa. Knowing how highly you and your arry value the achievements of General von Moltke, I bestow upon him the commander's cross of the Maria Theresa Order."

The German Emperor has bestowed on the Austrian Emperor the Order. Baron Conrad Hotzendorf, the iron cross of the first and second class. Leaders of the German army protest against the news circulated abroad regarding crueity practiced in the field.

passengers were Russians, many of them presumably called home to the colors.

British cruisers still maintain a strict watch outside the harbor, according to tales brought to port by officers of arriving vessels.

The steamer Bayame, from Havana, was spoken at 8 o'clock last night off Winter Quarter Shoal by a British cruiser, which steamed round the vessel, making a complete circle. This morning the Bayame was spoken by scl. making a complete circle. This morning the Bayame was spoken by the British cruiser Essex. The Norwegian steamer Regin, from Sidney, N. CERTAIN L. S. CITIZENS
LONDON, August 29.—The American embassy has thus far been unable to get into communication with certain Americans marooned in Ghent, Belgium, who are in need of money. News of their plight reached London through the State Department at Washington, which received its information from the American consul at Ghent, who succeeded in making his way to Antwerp. A telegram from Basel, Switzerland, declaring that five German and Aus-trian army corps are marching on Bellfort, France, has not been authenticated, nor has another report that the Germans have been obliged to with-draw a portion of their forces in the West to meet the Russian advance in the East.

The advance movement of the Mus-

The advance movement of the Muskovites in the eastern theatre of the war seems uninterrupted. In Eastern Prussia they have completely invested Koenigsberg, while in Galicia they would appear to be drawing the net tighter around Lemberg.

The source of the floating mines which have sunk so many small craft in the North Sea during the past few days seems to be indicated in a request to shipping to keep a lookout for "a trawler painted black, with white numbers on her funnels, and, when it is
